Will Outbid Others in Seeking Brooklyn Baseball Man's Services Saratoga Racing Association to Reduce Expenses-Jockey Club Is Branching Out.

If money cuts any figure with him, Edward Hanlon will be the next manager of the Cincinnati National League Club. Garry Herr-mann, the owner of that club, has come here determined to outbid all other seekers for Hanlon's services and will probably make a definite proposition to the Brooklyn manager to-day. Last spring Herrmann prac tically engaged Hanlon, as THE SUN stated at the time, but the publication of the fact blocked the deal, as Herrmann did not care to discourage Joe Kelley, who had charge of the Cincinnati club at the time. Since then Kelley has been deposed, having signed a contract as a player only for next year, and Herrmann has thereby paved the way for Hanlon's engagement. Hanlon has not signed with Brooklyn for another season and has been holding off to hear from the Cincinnati magnate.

Last spring, when the Brooklyns were about to go South, the control of the club passed into the hands of C. H. Ebbets and Henry W. Medicus, who promptly decided to reduce Hanlon's salary from $12,500 to about half that amount. Hanlon was forced to accept the cut, as there was no other berth open to him, but he signed for only one year. Herrmann says he is willing to pay Hanlon his original Brooklyn salary, or even more if there is a rival bidder for the manager's services, and if Hanlon decides to move his family from his home in Baltimore the deal will probably go through. Herrmann has a bank roll which he stands ready to place at the disposal of Hanlon in the way of pur-chasing new talent, which is a further inducement to the Brooklyn manager to accept, inasmuch as during the past two years he has been compelled to handle a low salaried, cheap ball team at Washington Park, to his own discredit. Herrmann desires to provide a winner for Cincinnati, and in securing Han-lon he believes that he will be able to accomplish that end. He has big money invested in National League baseball affairs and sees his way out of the pickle by making a strong play in Porkville. Hanion is one of the best known and most capable managers in the profession, and with Herrmann behind him it looks as if he would be able to recover much of the prestige he has lost since the Brooklyn club inaugurated its present cheeseparing policy.

A complete record of the fatal accidents in various branches of sport, barring football and automobiling, for the year about to end shows that twelve baseball players, nine pockeys, six pugllists, four harness horse-men and two gymnasts were killed. The most shocking death from automobile racing was that of Frank Croker in Florida, while, as has already been published, nineteen football players met their fate.

In abolishing football at Columbia, the university authorities probably prevented trouble with Yale, Princeton and Pennsylvania. Mike Murphy, the Pennsylvania trainer, has been quoted as saying that the Quakers were so unfairly used in their game with Morley's men that they did not care to play another game. Several Yale graduates have also scored Columbia for the tactics used by the latter at American League Park, while a recent editorial printed in a Princeton paper takes the local collegians further to task

Before his death Capt. S. S. Brown transferred ownership in all of his Futurity eligi-bles to his brother, so that they could not be declared null and void according to the conditions of the stakes. This move was probably made by the late millionaire turfman because he recalled how the late W. C. Whitney's eligibles were declared out of the big ney's eligibles were declared out of the big races. It is understood that Robert Brown will continue to race the big stable on the old lines, although next season the horses will probably be leased to Robert Tucker, the trainer of the stable.

The directors of the Saratoga Racing Association have decided to reduce expenses. In future the Great Republic Stakes, of $50,000 guaranteed value, will be cut down to a $10,000 added money affair, built on the lines of the Commonwealth Handicap, run at Sheepshead Bay. The Great Republic this year was a failure so far as actual starters were concerned, and was also a gift for Sysonby. The lack of revenue from the bookmakers greatly reduced the receipts of the Saratoga track, although it is understood that a dividend will

In due time the Jockey Club will branch out in its jurisdiction over tracks in the East and will be better fitted to offer inducements to the horsemen than the Western governing bodies. Outside of the metropolitan circuit and Saratoga, the Jockey Club before another year ends will control tracks at Montreal, New Salem, N. H., Providence, Buffalo, Albany, Baltimore and Washington, where socalled poor owners will have a royal chance o make feed bills. The new track at Montreal will be under the direction of John Boden, the secretary of the State Racing Commission, and will receive dates from the Jockey Club. J. L. Holland is building a track within a short ride of Albany and Troy which will be ready next summer, while the track in New Hampshire will open in June. It has not been decided yet whether there will be further racing at Buffalo, but there may be something doing in spite of past misfortunes. The Providence venture, while successful last summer, may meet with are straightened out.

The wrangles of the six day bicycle riders over a cut-up of the prize money do not re-flect credit upon the integrity of this kind of sport. Last year there was a cry of "fake," which the public soon forgot; but the present renewal of the charges, due to the statements of several of the riders, may not be so easily

When Battling Nelson and Terry McGovern come together in Philadelphia next month ring followers are liable to see one of the fastest slugging matches on record. McGovern, who has regained his old strength and vigor, is telling his friends that he will go at the Battler with the idea of knocking him out in jig time. Terry says that he has the punch, and that the only way he hopes to win is to mix it from the start. As Nelson likes this style of fighting and can hit like a middleweight, a decisive result is looked for inside the limit. McGovern, however, is inclined to be excitable, in which event he may find himself at a disadvantage before the cool headed, clever Dane.

Crescent A. C. Team Defeats Princeton

by 14 Goals to 1. The Crescent Athletic Club bockey team played against Princeton's team last night at the St. Nicholas Skating Rink. It was the first appearance of the Princeton players this season, and it was expected that they would make a good showing, but the Crescents were in fine form and won easily by a score of 14 goals to 1. The Crescents seemed to have found themselves and although not in shape gave a fine exhibition of hockey. Several substitutes were played during the game. McKenzie played in the second half in place O'Flynn, Nichols played for Wall and O'Rourke played forward for Liffiton. In the first half the Crescents scored 9 goals, and Dillon made the only one scored by Princeton. The teams lined up as follows:

Cutier Makes a Run of 132 at 18-Inch Balk Line, but Is Beaten by Gattagher.

A. G. Cutler of Boston made a run of 132 at 18.2 balk line last night in the professional tournament at the Knickerbocker Academy Brooklyn, but was besten by Tom Gallagher. The score was 400 to 376. His numerous scant innings while Gallagher was clicking off the counts evenly and for frequent double figure breaks were expensive. Lutler made a pronounced gain in his twelfth inning when he held the balls close together for 60. In his twenty-sixth inning, when he ran his 132, he went ahead for the first time in the evening, but Gallagher was on his mettle and ran the game out with clusters of 20, 20, and 36 in succession. KID CARTER BEATEN.

Jack Butler Bests the Crack Welterweight in Fast Bout.

After an absence of over a year Kid Carter, the hard hitting welterweight of Brooklyn, who beat Joe Walcott and most of the cracks weight, returned to the ring again last night. Carter met Jack Butler, another Brooklynite, in a three round bout at the Ulmer Park A. C., Ulmer Park. There was much curiosity to find out to what extent Carter had gone back, and over 1,000 persons attended. The show was a long one, the fighting being the best seen in Greater New York in many a day. Butler is a heavyweight of note and had at least twenty pounds the advantage of Carter. Carter appeared to be in fine trim.

Carter went after Butler with his old time vim. He began to swing both hands, and caughtButler alongside the head with the left, jarring him. Butler came back, jabbing the Kid. Then there was a mixup in which several hard raps were exchanged. Honors seemed to be even up to this stage, and Carter's chances looked bright. Abruptly Butler assumed a crouch and ripped a low blow that caught Carter in the groin. It seemed to be unintentional, and after a rest Carter went on for the second round. He did well until Butler repeated the blow. This time there was more force behind the smash. Carter was in agony, but refused to discon-

Carter was in agony, but recused to discontinue.

In the third Butler got to the Kid's stomach, and the punches took all the strength from him. He was sent reeling with lefts and rights, and was in a bad way at the beil. The low punches evidently contributed to the Kid's poor showing.

Phillie McGovern, the jockey and brother to the renowned Terry, showed himself a puncher by knocking out Jimmy Shay in the second round with a left swing. The other contests were as follows: Joe Dowling and Fred Burke fought a draw, John Lawson, the Terrible Swede, lost to Harry Farren on points; Frank Nodden and Mike Foley fought a draw, as did Joe Gordon and Willie Bergen and Tom Hinchey and George Marlin. This was a very fast affair.

Dartmouth Trims the Tigers at Basketball. PRINCETON, Dec. 12.-Dartmouth completely outplayed Princeton to-night in the opening game of the Tigers' basketball season by a score of 37 to 8. The Jerseymen were outplayed in every department of the game and on the offensive they were so closely and on the offensive they were so closely covered that tries at goal were seldom made. Not only were the New Englanders accurate in passing and in evading the Princeton players but their goal throwing was fast and sure. Russ of Dartmouth played a star game and scored most of the goals for the visitors. The team work of the New Englanders was the best seen in the Jersey town for some time. Capt. Vanderbilt put up the best game for the Jersey five, but his work was far below his usual form. The game was unusually clean and only seeven fouls were called against each team.

National League Bids Farewell to Hart and Welcomes Murphy Into the Fold -Minor League Representatives Present Their Grievances Other News.

The National League baseball legislators did not get as far along in their annual meet-ing yesterday as the election of officers, confining themselves to routine business. sequently the question as to whether Harry Pulliam will succeed himself as president of the organization or be sidetracked goes over until to-day; but the general unofficial opinion yesterday was that Mr. Pulliam would be reelected and that the opposition against him, if there really is any organized opposition, would not be strong enough to oust the present incumbent.

Several club representatives when approached on the subject came out flatfooted and said they would vote for Mr. Pulliam, while it was no sure thing that all of the noncommittal ones were against him. President Ebbets of the Brooklyn Club said he thought Pulliam would be reelected, D. Leroy Reeves of the Philadelphia Club said that organization would vote for Pulliam, and President Murphy of Chicago said the Chicago Club's vote would be for Pulliam. President Drey-fuss's remarks on the subject left no doubt as to the way he would vote.

"Whatever differences the Pittsburg Club may have had with Harry Pulliam," he said, does not after the fact that it is not opposed to the president of the National League to the president of the National League.
Baseball has been prosperous under Mr.
Pulliam's administration. I made more money with the Pitsburg Club last season than I ever made in one season before, and I am content to let well enough alone. I am not in favor of any change in the presidency Personal differences do not cut any figure with me, and I don't believe in harboring Another club president who did not want his name used ventured the opinion that Pulliam would be reelected, and if he votes the way he thinks the election will go, it looks as if Pulliam would get at least five votes, enough to reelect him. The politi-cians about the corridor of the Victoria Hotel figured it out that one or two other magnates would follow the lead of the club president just referred to. John T. Brush of the New just referred to. John T. Brush of the New York (lub, they asserted, was the one who was chiefly opposed to Pulliam. Another magnate remarked the night before that it looked very much as if there would be a new president of the National League, but if there was strength enough yesterday to accomplish that end it was well concealed. Neither President Pulliam nor those who are said to be against him showed any signs of campaign worries yesterday. "Pulliam will be elected, and there won't be more than one name in nomination," said a Western magnate.

There were present at the league meeting when it convened yesterday: John T. Brush and Fred Knowles of New York, Charles H. Ebbets and H. W. Medicus of Brooklyn, A. H. Soden and W. H. Robison of St. Louis, President Pullam and John Heydler, Previous to the league meeting the board of directors, consisting of Brush, Soden, Dreyfuss and Hart, met, awarded the pennant to the New York club, audited the accounts and did a few other stereotyped things. The first procedure after the rollcall at the league meeting was the formal stepping down and out from baseball of Jim Hart and the introduction of his successor, Murphy. Both made speeches. Mr. Hart was made an honorary member for life of the league, then the board of directors' report was received and approved.

The financial report for the year was gone over and with the president's report as secretary and treasurer was approved. One of those who was on hand remarked afterward that "the best campaign document Pulliam could have was his report of the league's finances."

W. W. Watkins of Minneapolis, representing the Class A leagues, and J. H. Farrell, secretary of the minor league organization, appeared before the league dignitaries to bring minor league grievances to their attention. Watkins's plea was for the one man draft with the drafting price $1,500 instead of $750. Farrell raised the point that it would be more pleasing to the minors if when the majors draft a player they would pony up the full drafting price at once instead of making it in two payments. The National League finally decided that inasmuch as the minor leagues are ineeting here to-day the best thing they could do would be to put their requests in writing and submit them in that form. The league then adjourned until to-day.

Hugh Duffy, the Philadelphia manager; Fred Tenney, the Boston manager; Catcher Mike Grady, who declares he has retired and will go into business in Philadelphia; Manager Clarke and Clarence Beaumont of Pittsburg, McGraw of the world's champlons; Manager Clarke and Clarence Beaumont of Pittsburg, Pitcher Mike O'Neill, Outfielder Magee of the Philadelphias, Bill Dahlen and Bill Gilbert of the New Yorks and Patsy Donovan, who is not doing anything in baseball just now and says he is not going into any outlaw league and does not know what he is giong to do, were among the ballplayers about the hotel. Joe Kelley talked with Carry Herrmann, and in that connection there was a report that Billy Murray, the successful Jersey City manager, might handle the Reds or two while here, brought his hard hitting centre fleider, Beaumont, East to have Mike Murphy told him. "What the muscle needed was exercise to done as what there is in him that makes him valuable."

The Eastern League met yesterday and put in most of the time revising and adopting a new constitution. The schedule for next year was discussed, and a 140 game schedule will probably be agreed on. The national board of arbitration of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues—which is easy to pronounce when said quickly—put in the afternoon fixing up cases of disputed ball players, the same to be presented to the national commission. Ban Johnson, president of the American League, was in town yesterday, but his classic countenance was not on public view.

JANSEN BEATS BRODERICK. Welterweights Mix It Up at the Colma A. C. in Harlem.

Crowded into an fil ventilated old hall, about five hundred sports gathered at 158 West 125th street last night to see a series of bouts of three rounds each under the auspices of the Colma A. C.

minutes before Jansen and Broderick appeared. Broderick, it is said, refused to go on before he received his end of the purse in advance. Broderick, and Jansen put up a fairly lively struggle in which very little clean hitting was indulged.

In the first round Broderick played for the wind, getting home two good drives under the heart. Jansen returned with jabs, catching the Yonkers man on the nose and mouth and causing him to clinch. Both slugged a lot in the second, and the referee, Johnny Pollack, had to separate them. When they faced each other Broderick laced Jansen in the wind and shook him up with swings. Jansen rocked Broderick's head with a heavy right counter, but was speedy, both trying for a right counter, but was sent back with jolts on the nose.

The third was speedy, both trying for a knockout. Broderick swung the right, but as he did so Jansen hooked the left and cut Broderick's forehead. The blood appeared in streams, but, unmindful of this, Broderick came back. Jansen then landed on the body and the blows distressed Broderick. He appeared to be all in at the bell. It was Jansen's mill easily.

Harry Engle and Babe Cullen drew in the first preliminary, Peter Sweeney walloped Mike Moran, while Willie Schumacher outpointed Harry McGrath of the New West Side A. C. Johnny Burnes had all the better of Billy Gibbons. He had Gibbons practically knocked out in the second. In the third the mill was stopped to prevent Gibbons being put to sleep. This was the best encounter of the night, both lashing away for dear life.

Jeff O'Connor whipped Frank Evans in a slashing bout. This was Evans's first ring appearance, and he did well. Jack Doyle of this city and Frankie Howe of Chicago came together in the next affair. Howe, who has a good record, was looked upon as a sure winner, but Doyle forced the fighting and beat the Westerner in decisive style. Jack Schafer punched Johnny Shields without stint for three rounds. The last contest was a hummer. Jack Buckley met the Broadway Slasher. The Slasher possesses a vicious wallop, and it was in evidence in the first round, sending Buckley to the mat. But Buckley recovered, and by blocking carefully outpointed his man.

Those who visited O'Brien's training camp yesterday noted that the Philadelphia boy was in great shape. After he finished his work for the afternoon, which consisted mostly of bag punching and a few rounds of easy sparring with Gorman, Jimmy Anthony and Swanson, he stepped on a scale and tipped the beam at exactly 154 pounds. O'Brien says this is about the weight he will be when he goes in the ring.

Besides his gymnasium work, O'Brien did seven miles of road work in the morning, and spent most of the day at different ganges and diversions about the beach. He says he will only do such work from now on as is necessary to keep him in shape. He is supremely confident of victory.

WANTS ZONES IN FOOTBALL. Suggestion of a Former Player in Writing to the President.

W. Thompson, a lawyer of this city who played football at Wesleyan a number of years ago, has written to President Roosevelt suggesting changes in the rules built on would put a high premium on kicking and says that the nearer one team gets to the goal line "the greater the nervous tension of th players and the greater the liability of brutal players and the greater the habity of official nationes to assert themselves." He would have the field divided into the middle and goal zones and there being more roughness, according to his view, in the goal zones than in the middle zones, he has a plan to reduce rushing in the goal zones to a minimum.

duce rushing in the goal zones to a minimum.

He would change Rule 26 to read as follows: "Goal obtained from touchdown, 5 points; goal from field kick, either a drop or place kick, 15 points; goal from punt field kick, 10 points; touchdown failing goal, 4 points, safety by opponents, 1 point."

All this, Mr. Thompson contends, would go to produce more good kickers, place a light team more nearly on terms of equality with a heavier one and make a cleaner, safer and more interesting game, without making any radical change in the present fundamental character of the game.

BET" WHEN RACE WAS OVER Gulible Frenchman Presents $2,000 to Bunch of Swindlers.

Ernest Jacob and his wife sold out their shop in Paris and came to this city to deal in antiques. They arrived with all their money and other belongings on November 1 and went to live at 101 West Fifty-eighth street. They found they needed a little more money and advertised Mrs. Jacob's fur coat for sale. Frank Taylor of 228 West Twenty-fifth street wrote that he knew a man who might buy the coat. Jacob met Jules Dewis, same address, and sold met Jules Dewis, same address, and sold the coat for $160 cash.

Dewis was a Frenchman and appeared to take a fancy to Jacob. "I paid more than I think the coat is worth," he told him, "because you are a Frenchman. I hope the money will be of service to you in your business. If you need more perhaps I can help you further. I have a brother who is a jockey and I get more money than I need by betting on his tips."

Jacob was impressed and with the assistance of Taylor and Dewis managed as he supposed to put up $2,000 on Poetry in the first race at New Orleans, about an hour after Poetry had been beaten. He told Police Captain Daly yesterday that the "poolroom" was in the front room of 108 West Forty-sixth street, and Daly sent around there and arrested three men and three women. Jacob will lock them three women. Jacob will lock them

A trained nurse, who occupied an adjoining room, notified Capt. Brown, and the door of the room was forced open. Inside they found John McLeod of Lowell, a passenger, with a bullet wound in the right temple and a revolver in his hand.

McLeod was groaning but unable to speak. He died just as the steamer docked. A suit case containing clothing was found in his room and there were several letters in a coat pocket. None of these indicated premeditated suicide.

Capt. Brown told Coroner Brown and two Central Office detectives that he believed McLeod's father was a cigar manu-lieved McLeod's father was a cigar manu-facturer of Lowell. McLeod, he said, boarded the boat at Fall River. He was alone and after dinner listened to the or-chestra on the cabin deck. He engaged in conversation with the leader and "tipped" him two or three times. As far as is known he did not take a drink. He retired about 10:30 c/clock.

Changes on the Schooner Katrina. The Katrina, James B. Ford's schooner, will come out next season in better shape for racing than ever. She has always had a fair amount of success and is a boat of good, wholesome type, so that those yachtsmen who are opposed to the racing machine have always been pleased to see her win. This year her best victory was off Newporf, when she captured the Walters cup, when sailed against the Elmina, Corona and Valmore. The Katrina is now at Greenport and is to have new masts, new bowsprit and some changes made in her centreboard, which it is expected will increase her speed. The changes are being made under the supervision of A. Cary Smith, who designed the boat some years ago. The Katrina was originally a sloop and raced against the Titania, then owned by C.
